ZION HAS TASTE OF COLD, SNOW AND RAIN

Prophet Without Honor in Own Country, and People Are Caught Napping.

It rained; then it snowed; then it got cold and muddy, and Saturday was as disagreeable a day for Salt Lake as could be found by the weather prophet in a search through his records of many months.

The weather man has been warning the people that a storm was coming, but as a prophet is not honored in his own country, no one was inclined to take him seriously. The rain started early Saturday morning and for several hours resembled a spring shower; then it grew cold, and turned into snow, and the evening was "dull, dreary, and disagreeable."

As unwelcome as the truth may be, there seems to be no doubt but that winter has come. After procrastinating and threatening from time to time, for weeks, cold weather arrived December 7, and, so far, has done a good deal toward making up for lost time. The weather man says there is still a big storm hovering in the Northwest and coming slowly toward Salt Lake. He regards the little sprinkling of rain and snow as the vanguard of the stress of weather on the way.

Local Conditions.

Forecast for Salt Lake City and vicinity—Rain or snow Sunday; colder.

Following is the report of the local office of the weather bureau for the twenty-four hours ending at 6 p. m., Saturday:

Maximum temperature, 48 degrees; minimum temperature, 27 degrees; mean temperature, 42 degrees, which is 5 degrees above normal.

Accumulated excess of temperature since the first of the month, 45 degrees.

Accumulated excess of temperature since January 1, 1908, 199 degrees.

Relative humidity, 79 per cent.

Total precipitation from 6 p. m. to 6 p. m., 12 of an inch.

Accumulated deficiency of precipitation since the first of the month, 16 of an inch.

Accumulated excess of precipitation since January 1, 2.33 inches.

General Conditions.

The low barometric pressure over the North Pacific has developed considerably since last report, causing general rain or snow over the plateau and Pacific States, with rain this morning at Los Angeles, Pocatello, Boise, Portland and Spokane, and snow at Helena. Light rain was also reported at Kansas City, Omaha and Galveston. High pressure continued over the South Atlantic States, producing fair weather over the most of the country east of the Rocky Mountain slope.

The North Pacific storm will cause rain or snow and colder in this vicinity tonight and Sunday.
